America's Handicap

(Lieut. Col. Charles D'Aoust Repington, British soldier, journalist, diplomat and expert in military and foreign affairs, has written especially for THE BEE, his view of America's influence in world affairs and his impressions of our leading statesmen. Having attended the disarmament conference, Col. Repington has returned against for a lecture tour. Recently he has made a tour of Europe observing post-war conditions.)

By LIEUT. COL. CHARLES REPINGTON, British Foreign and Military Expert.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—America's influence in world affairs suffers because the world knows so few of America's statesmen.

Only four with big names internationally are in public life just now: Harding, Hughes, Root and Hoover. Your statesmen rise suddenly, and then fall and disappear with regrettable rapidity. Every four years you change everything, just as Europe and the rest of the world is getting acquainted with your leaders. Again we have to start all over again in our study of American policies and statesmen.

There seems to be no permanent and enduring political life for your statesmen as there is in Great Britain and in other European countries. We know plenty of great Americans in private life, in diplomacy and in the business and social world. But they are known only to a small circle, and they do not figure in American politics.

Wilson we knew, but he is no longer in the front of your political stage. We knew Roosevelt, but he is gone. We know none of the great figures among the governors of your states. I cannot find an American who can tell me the names of half a dozen.

The world ought to know what these statesmen are doing in thinking. English is a tremendous link, a bond of understanding between English-speaking countries. But co-operation would be advanced if we knew more of your great statesmen.

Your four big figures—Harding, Hughes, Root and Hoover—have made an impression upon the world. President Harding is a very representative chief. He is a fine figure who presents well; a great deal less of an autocrat than his predecessor, but gives one the impression of being a great force in reserve in case of future emergencies.

I admired the modesty with which he withdrew from the disarmament conference after the opening ceremonies and allowed the delegation to carry on. I hope the result will appear in the Senate discussion, and that it will be given time to settle up all treaties and resolve the questions given to the Senate and secure ratification by Congress before he is involved, or involves America, in the next great step forward in the path of progress he may have in mind.

Secretary Hughes was misunderstood by the English. Before we came to Washington we regarded him as a frosty Caucasian who was unlikely to fall under any genial inspiration. We found him on the contrary a wise and capable statesman who had powers of conciliation which we had never led to expect in him.

He hurt the feelings of no one. His speeches were masterly, concise, logical and with the supreme merit of brevity. His speech on limitation of naval armament Nov. 12 was one of the greatest world events in our time.

We regard Mr. Hughes as the mouthpiece of Mr. Harding and his government. You can choose a good mouthpiece or a bad mouthpiece. Mr. Hughes is a good mouthpiece.

We should like to see Mr. Hughes preside over a future conference in Washington or in Europe. We are all tied up in Europe with our treaties and our engagements with our allies while America can stand above and be able to fulfill the role of arbiter in a sense that no European nation is able to do.

Senator Root. We have profound respect for your Senator Root. His informed and balanced statesmanship has always impressed us and the four points which he had down as the principles of future action of the powers in China I can only describe as gems of workmanship.

Secretary Hoover. Mr. Hoover has won golden opinions throughout the world as a master mind with unequalled capacity for organization and for taking pains. I wonder how many tens of thousands of lives he has saved—he and all those from John D. Rockefeller downward who have made Hoover's work possible. I think that Hoover's experience is only an apprenticeship for greater work yet to be done.

COL. REPINGTON.

Princess Mary Will Set Style Of June Brides

LONDON, Feb. 22.—June brides must have a "sweet-pea trousseau" for that is the style which Princess Mary has set.

The complete trousseau of Princess Mary has been displayed privately at Buckingham Palace to newspaper and fashion writers of London, and the trousseau is a dream. Pastel tones, the soft tones of blue, pink, mauve and grey, the shades of the delicate sweet pea predominate in this royal trousseau.

The favorite flower is the sweet pea, and it is said that she has chosen her trousseau with this flower in mind.

Second only to the wedding gown in every bride's trousseau is the "going-away" gown. Princess Mary has chosen her "going-away" gown of blue, a powderblue charmuse in puffed lines from the yoke to the foot of the dress, with coral beads, crystals and blue silk trimmings.

From the sides, caught in at the waist with pink crystal bead roses. The greater part of the trousseau is made of small, with turned-up, the-front shapes predominating. The hats are of every material, there being several in black satin, one of which has jade Marguerites embroidered across the front.

There are several little mushroom-shaped bonnets, one of bottle-green being particularly effective. There is also a precious turban of gold tissue swathed over a tissue of green, rose, blue and gold.

The suits which form a part of the trousseau are extremely simple. They are cut in straight lines.

Among the furs one is charmed by a marvelous full-length minkskin coat, made with a ruff, a square collar and kimono sleeves. There is also an ermine stole, fringed with ermine tails, that is a delight to look upon.

A gorgeous wrap of Russian ermine. Footwear the unusual not is hit with brown and gray antelope shoes, with crossed straps, fastened on the sides with buttons. Evening slippers, mostly of brocade, with a ribbon tie over the instep.

Medium heels predominate in the royal trousseau—distinctly English heels. The real everyday tone of the trousseau is given by several knitted sweaters.

General observation of spring styles in England, if the trousseau sets the style, would lead to a forecast of fairly lengthy skirts and the waistlines at the waist.

Of course, there is some lingerie, but it seems that discussion of lingerie is taboo in royal circles, and one must serve the royal inhibitions, but there are some dear, lovely fluff things.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—A thousand debutantes and former debutantes took charge of the Hotel Biltmore today and ran it on a most happy and expensive style for the benefit of the Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis. Prominent girls and matrons served as waitresses and room clerks and provided over cigar counters, news stands and tea tables.

They soon educated all of the guests into the spirit of the day. Newspapers sold at a dollar and more, and dinner tips ranged as high as $75. Pretty girls posed as bellhops. The lobby was filled with "debs," selling all manner of articles. Guests were persuaded that they needed things they never had bought before and probably never would again. Unless a man had a flower in his lapel, a book or magazine in his hands, and his pockets stuffed with smokes and programs for the day, and toys to take home to the kiddies, he felt almost half undressed.

One floor housed a circus, a bazaar was on the next, a tea daisant further up, and a bridge tournament still higher. The winner of the tournament was given a parterre box for a performance at the Metropolitan Opera House.

A style show, with popular "flappers" and "debs" as models, attracted hundreds, with long lines waiting outside to see a comedy, played by society girls and their gentlemen friends.

Orchestras seemed to be all over the hotel, and where there was music there was dancing. At dinner Broadway actors and show girls came in for a cabaret performance, and actors flocked out for the "Merry Midnight Frolic" that made the after-dinner supper parties the gayest of the year. These ended at 3 a. m., and then the business of running the hotel was given back to the regular employees.

Capital Structures To Be Made Safe

Every Public Building in Washington to Be Rigidly Examined.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—District commissioners yesterday laid plans for a city-wide survey of all old buildings of a public nature, including hotels, business offices and apartments, to determine their safety. They gave orders for repairs of the seven theaters closed on Saturday night.

Emergency funds of $8,000 will be drawn upon this week for employment of two additional inspectors in the building department to aid in the all-inclusive survey.

"We will go to the limit of physical power and financial possibility to protect the public of Washington from any unsafe building structures," Col. Charles Keller, engineer commissioner, declared in indicating the policy of the commissioners.

Fire Chief George S. Watson and Building Inspector Healy were ordered yesterday to examine 12 more theater buildings in the district thought to need immediate repairs. These buildings were reported by five expert builders and engineers as in "doubtful condition."

"These twelve buildings were not reported as a menace to patrons, but it was indicated by the committee that they should be very carefully inspected and we are doing this immediately," Col. Keller said yesterday.

Inspectors have been ordered to report the condition of each of the 12 theaters as they complete their investigation. The inspection is expected to be completed before the close of the week.

Commissioner James F. Oyster yesterday ordered a rigid inspection of all apartment houses in the district and all downtown buildings. I was astounded at the report of the committee who inspected the theater buildings of the district. If there are similar conditions existing in any buildings built prior to the enactment of the fireproof regulation in the building code of 1910, I want to know it immediately," Commissioner Oyster declared last night. He indicated the commissioners would not hesitate to close any building found in the condition of any of the seven theaters closed on Saturday.

Specifications of the faults reported by the committee were typewritten for each theater owner and sent to them last night.

Owners of the Cosmos, Metropolitan and Columbia theaters were in conference with Commissioner Keller yesterday afternoon.

"The attitude of all owners who have appeared has been that of co-operation and I feel that within a short time the majority of condemned buildings will be able to reopen. All who have appeared indicated a willingness to co-operate in making repairs if they are shown necessary," Col. Keller said.

Harry M. Crandall, owner of the Metropolitan theater, was in conference with Commissioner Keller yesterday afternoon. Mr. Crandall said his engineers had found the building absolutely trustworthy, and, although he was willing to many repairs deemed necessary, he wished to have the engineers and the commissioners compare the contradicting reports.

Managers of the National and of Poff's yesterday said they would hasten alterations in their buildings to conform with the repairs ordered by the commissioners. Box offices of the National and of Poff's were open yesterday afternoon, and the usual lines of patrons passed before the windows, receiving money back on advance sales.

Both of the downtown motion picture houses that were affected by the order will be able to reopen soon, it was intimated by Commissioner Keller. He said the Columbia theater would be able to reopen its doors possibly within a week. Slight repairs in fireproofing are necessary in the Columbia, it was said.

Commissioner Oyster indicated last night he would seek several amendments to the building regulations and fire regulations to protect the public from fire hazards.

GRAHAM, Feb. 21.—Citizens of Crane Creek, Mercer county, W. Va., are right much stirred over the report of the presence of a huge wild beast in that vicinity. John Lane, a taxi driver from Princeton, claimed to have met the animal in the road the other night. The beast, judging from the description given, is thought to be a panther, the first to be seen in this section in several years. The beast, blinded by the head light of Lane's automobile, opened its non-porous jaws and showed evidence of fight.

People Must Eat

—whether times are prosperous or otherwise. But during a period of economy such as we are now experiencing, people pass up delicacies and luxuries for food with the most nutrition, the greatest food value, for the money they spend.

Then's when they appreciate fully how little a can of Golden Crown Syrup costs—how far it goes—how many ways it can be used or eaten—and how much more real "food value" it has over many other articles.

You can buy Golden Crown Syrup in 1-2 and 2-2 pound cans, but the most economical way is in the 5 or 10 pound sizes, because it's cheaper per pound.

Prosecutor at Trial of Donegan and Ex-Dry Clerk Says He Will Prove It—Soon Became Millionaire.

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Harold R. Stephenson and George E. Golding, special agents of the treasury department, testified yesterday in the trial of Edward J. Donegan and Recinal Sassone, charged with theft of papers from the office of former Prohibition Director O'Connor, in December, 1920 and with conspiracy to violate the law.

Donegan, a former Brooklyn contractor, is alleged to have risen to riches since prohibition was enacted. The government, in a separate action, is endeavoring to recover $1,500,000 in back income taxes and penalties from Donegan. Sassone was a clerk in O'Connor's office. The two were arrested at the Hotel McAlpin, where it is alleged Donegan and Miss Sassone were known as Mr. and Mrs. Joyce.

Stephenson, who posed as a prohibition agent with connections in Washington, told yesterday of forged liquor permits by Donegan having been shown him which the latter admitted were not genuine, but which, he said, all right. He said Donegan told him he was doing a big business getting liquor out of bond. He suggested Stephenson help him in the Washington office. He said Donegan promised him $100 for every barrel he could get released.

Stephenson said he met Donegan and Miss Sassone through Mrs. Mary Parkin, also a clerk in Director O'Connor's office.

Golding testified to the arrest of Donegan and the Sassone girl in Mrs. Parkin's room at the McAlpine, where, he said, the three had connected rooms.

Assistant Federal Attorney Cahill, in outlining the government's case, said the indictment claimed Donegan dealt in crooked withdrawal papers to the extent of 30,000 cases and 1,000 barrels weekly. He said when arrested Donegan offered a bribe of $5,000 in cash for his release, and that of Miss Sassone. This, he is charged, he increased to $31,000. At the time he had with him $45,000 in bills.

"During the trial we'll show you said Mr. Cahill, "that the game Donegan carried on with the aid of this girl and others in the government's employ netted him, while in progress, about $30,000 a day."

The coroner's jury met and returned a verdict to the effect that Belote came to his death by a bullet, fired by unidentified parties. The arrests made at the request of the detectives, followed. Mrs. Belote was released on $4,900 bail and Kilmon on $7,500.

Girl Tries Suicide By Swallowing Money

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 21.—Virginia Johnson, nineteen years old, tried to end her life last night by swallowing a dime, three nickels and two pennies. She was taken to the Allegheny hospital, where it was stated today that she would recover.

The young woman was arrested Saturday and held for a hearing in morals court. Late last night the matron found her screaming and apparently in a dying condition.

Questioned, the girl admitted that she had eaten some bread in which she had imbedded the dime, nickels and pennies.

Keep that wedding day complexion

The blushing bride of today should be the blooming matron of tomorrow, retaining the charm of girlhood's freshness to enhance radiant maturity.

For bridal beauty should not fade, nor the passing of each anniversary be recorded on your face.

Keep the school-girl complexion which graced your wedding day, and you will keep your youth. With a fresh, smooth skin no woman ever seems old.

The problem of keeping such a complexion was solved centuries ago. The method is simple—the means within the reach of all.

Cosmetic cleansing the secret

To keep your complexion fresh and smooth you must keep it scrupulously clean. You can't allow dirt, oil and perspiration to collect and clog the pores if you value clearness and fine texture.

You can't depend on cold cream to do this cleansing—repeated applications help fill up the pores. The best way is to wash your face with the mild, soothing, lather blended from palm and olive oils, the cleansers used by Cleopatra.

Science has combined those two Oriental oils in the bland, balmy facial soap which bears their name. You need never be afraid of the effects of soap and water if the soap you use is Palmolive.

How it acts The rich, profuse lather, massaged into the skin, penetrates the pores and removes every trace of the clogging accumulations which when neglected make the skin texture coarse and cause blackheads and blotches.

It softens the skin and keeps it flexible and smooth. It freshens and stimulates, encouraging firmness and attractive natural color.

Oily skins won't need cold cream or lotions after using Palmolive. If the skin is inclined to dryness, the time to apply cold cream is after this cosmetic cleansing.

And remember, powder and rouge are perfectly harmless when applied to a clean skin and removed carefully once a day.

Don't use it only for your face

Complexion beauty should extend to throat, neck and shoulders. These are quite as conspicuous as your face for beauty or the lack of it.

Give them the same beautiful cleansing that you do your face and they become soft, white and smooth. Use it regularly for bathing and for your body what it does for your face.

Not too expensive

Although Palmolive is the finest, mildest and most economical of all the price is not too high to permit general use on the wash and for bathing.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. # Colorado River Project to Make West Self-supporting

BY HARRY HUNT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—How to harness 6,000,000 water horsepower, belonging to seven States, convert it into electric energy and irrigate 5,000,000 acres of land with the same water that furnishes the power, is the problem to be tackled by the Colorado River commission, headed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, at hearing to begin at Phoenix, Ariz., March 1.

At a preliminary session, just concluded in Washington, agreement was reached upon developing the river as a unified whole, each development being considered as a part of one co-ordinated system.

As an index to the magnitude of the full development of the Colorado's power possibilities alone, proposal from private interests, asking for the right to develop individual sites, provide for aggregate expenditures of more than $600,000,000.

Seven States Affected
The problems of the Colorado affect directly seven States, and the necessity for reconciling the demands and claims of these separate States caused the creation of the commission headed by Hoover. Each of the States affected—Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming—has a representative.

As an example of these conflicting interests, California, which contributes least to the river itself—stands to benefit more largely by its development than any of the other States. Colorado and Utah, which supply about three-fourths of the water flow, are inclined to press their prior rights to the water for diversion for irrigation.

Before progress can be made a peace pact must be reached between these States, providing for the division of the water supply. Such a compact would be subject to ratification by Congress and the various State legislatures.

First Development
First on the list of likely power sites to be developed is that at Boulder Canyon. Here the waters of the Colorado are compressed between towering rock walls only a few hundred feet apart. A dam 600 feet in height would provide water power to generate 600,000 horsepower of hydro-electric energy. Such a dam and plant would cost about $40,000,000.

Los Angeles, 250 miles to the southwest, would be the first large market for the power thus developed. A large potential market, however, lies within 200 miles to the southeast in the mining districts near Phoenix.

The Southern California Edison company, in planning distribution of power, in event its application for one of the major power sites is granted, has planned to carry power as far as San Francisco, 500 miles distant.

The possibilities of power development on the Colorado may best be visualized when it is understood that in its 1700 miles of length the river drops more than 6,000 feet. In the 350 miles between Glenn Canyon and Boulder Canyon there is a drop of 2,500 feet. And the annual volume of water passing down the gorge between Glenn and Boulder canyons would cover an area of 15,000 acres to a depth of 1,000 feet.

Flood Safeguards
It is this precipitous descent, making possible vast power development, which also makes imperative river control to regulate its flow and safeguard the fertile Imperial Valley of California from disastrous floods.

Such is the to-and-fro of the country through which this river flows, however, that the sites for maximum power development, such as Glenn and Boulder canyons, offer small opportunity for water storage for irrigation or for flood regulation. Dams

THIS MAP SHOWS THE CONTEMPLATED DEVELOPMENT OF THE COLORADO RIVER BASIN BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AND THE SEVEN STATES THAT WILL BENEFIT FROM IT.

GOVERNMENT CLAIM AGAINST MOTOR CO.

DETROIT, Feb. 21.—The Detroit Trust company, receiver for the Lincoln Motors company, now owned by Henry Ford, was notified today of the filing by the government of a claim for $4,000,000 growing out of war department contracts. Ralph Stone, president of the trust company and James M. Mullen, attorney for Lincoln stockholders, declared they were unable to understand the government's action.

The claim, it was explained, was not related to that filed before the receiver's sale, in which the government sought to collect $4,000,000 in taxes. This amount was later reduced to approximately $600,000. The Lincoln company manufactured 5,500 Liberty motors for the government.

ther upstream and on the more important tributaries.

All these conflicting factors make necessary a general comprehensive and co-ordinated development.

With this program, definitely established, the big question remaining to be decided following the Phoenix conference—if it is successful in settling the conflicting claims of the States—will be the extent to which the development is to be done by public agencies. It is believed Secretary Hoover will recommend the development of the "key" sites by the government direct. States and municipalities may be given preference in developing others.

To the extent that private capital is granted development rights, it will be required to coordinate its plans to fit harmoniously into the general scheme.

Given the reservoir of power possible by the Colorado River's harnessing, and the increased fertility that would come with 5,000,000 additional acres of irrigated lands, the southwest would have to look to the "industrial" east or the agricultural middle-west for few of the things it desires to make life worth living.

Explodes Tradition Of 'College Widow'

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Feb. 21.—The college widow tradition has been stripped of its semblance of truth by the old statistics which Dean Nicholson has taken from the marriage records of Wesleyan graduates of the last 10 years.

These show that every tenth man who comes to Wesleyan will marry a local girl. The dean, therefore, by devious reasoning, asserts that the chances of a girl getting married in a small college town are fully one-quarter better than they are if she lives in a town of equal size where there is no college.

The dean wished it understood that matrimony is not the only mission of a college in the town where it is, but there is a decided tendency to fewer old maids within the ten-mile radius of the college of learning.

At Wesleyan the dean finds 225 Middletown girls have accepted Wesleyan graduates as their husbands. More than 100 more have married men who have studied at the college but have graduated. Some of this latter group have found their college spouses suddenly short by an unfortunate marriage while they were still undergraduates. There is an unwritten law that no man who marries before his course is completed shall receive a diploma at Wesleyan.

Dean Nicholson finds that in several small towns which surround Middletown there have been about 100 other girls who have found husbands among Wesleyan men. This gives about 10 per cent of the alumni body who have married local girls and girls who live in strictly neighboring territory.

Wesleyan was a co-educational institution for about 35 years. The dean says these statistics were further bolstered by the fact that there were many marriages between the 100 and 200 women graduates.

Dean Nicholson believes that the success of his study is that a good many college girls have, in about 25 per cent of the cases, found the help they need in this town of about 10,000 people.

Uncle Sam Puts Concrete Roads First

No one has better facilities for determining the past performance of roads of all kinds in all parts of the country than the United States Government.

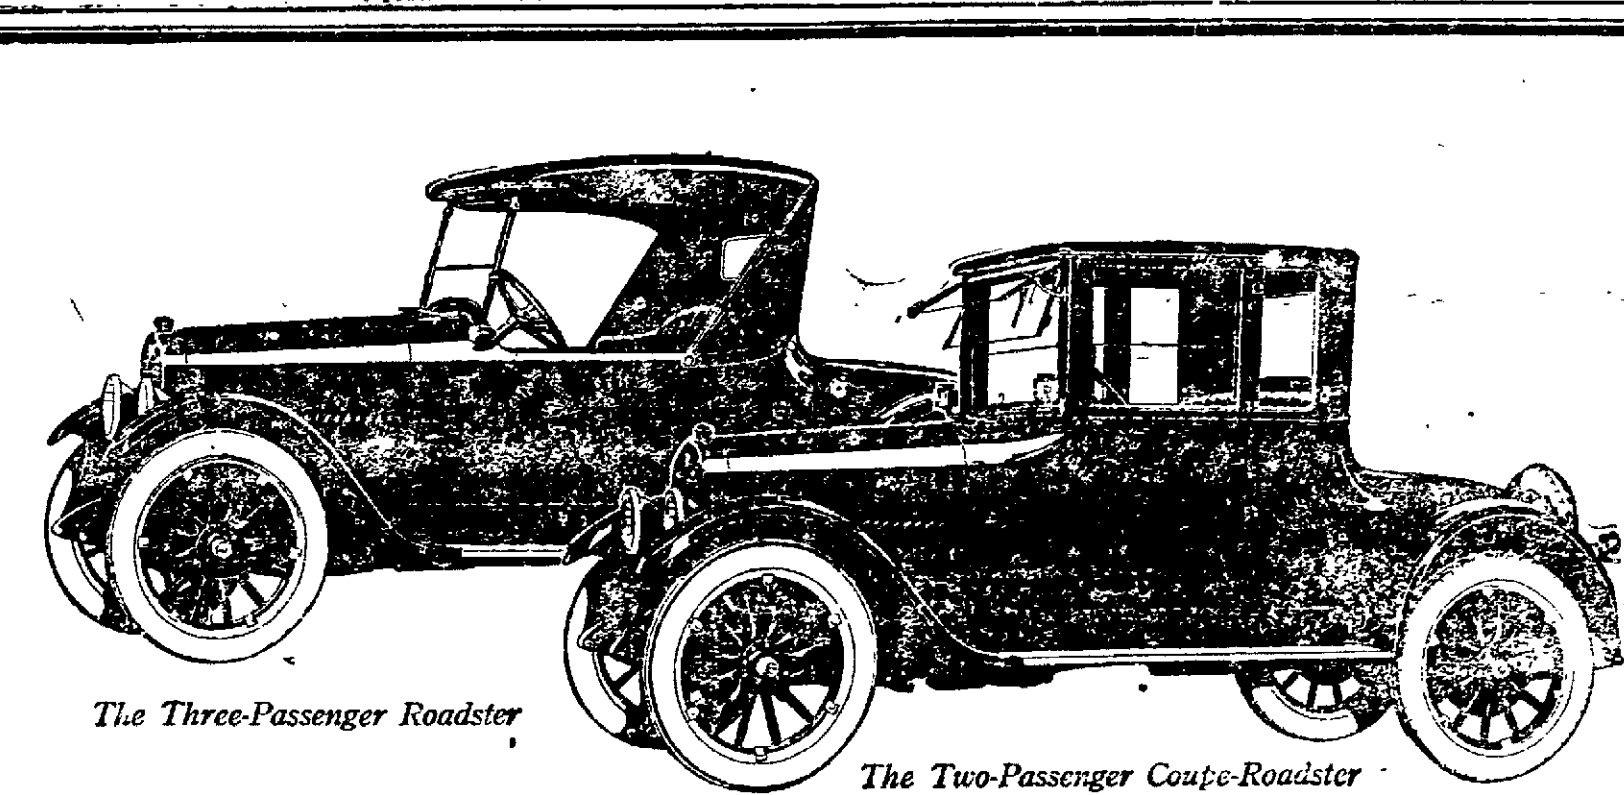

The Government approves the types of construction to which it will lend its aid, and in an overwhelming majority of instances it has approved Concrete.

Cooperating with the states, the Government has approved in the past five years expenditures totaling $229,000,000 for three kinds of pavement—Concrete, brick and bituminous. Of this, $184,000,000, or more than 80 per cent, has been invested in Concrete. That represents 79.3 per cent of the mileage paved.

Any community that selects Concrete for its highways is fully sustained in its choice by the observation and experience of the Federal Government.

Bolshevists Tells of Death Of Last Czar

Communist Account Furnishes Additional Details of Execution of Romanoff Family by Firing Squad.

ERKATERINBURG, Russia, Feb. 22.—A Bolshevik account of the execution of the late Emperor Nicholas and his family, which took place here on the night of July 16, 1918, has been made public in a pamphlet written by I. Bykoff, former chairman of the Ekaterinburg soviet.

According to Bykoff's account, the last words of the emperor, when he and his family were led unexpectedly to the basement of their prison and held that all the Romanoffs must die were: "But are we not to be taken anywhere?"

The empress and her four daughters (the Grand Duchess Tatiana, Anastasia and Maria) and the little czarevitch and the remaining members of the household of eleven were stunned that they said nothing when Avdeff, the commandant of the house, ordered them to line up against the basement wall and pronounced the sentence.

Bykoff says that a firing squad of four shot the former imperial family with revolver. The identity of the members of the execution squad is not revealed.

The pamphlet places the responsibility for the execution of the Romanoffs directly upon the Ekaterinburg soviet, which decided early in July, 1918, that the czar and his family must die and entrusted the execution of the sentence and the destroying of the bodies to Peter Ermakoff, an old workman of the Upper-Issetzky works.

Avdeff, commandant of the house, read the sentence according to Bykoff's story, and there were only four witnesses.

But it is not indicated whether Avdeff shot or even witnessed the death of the imperial family.

There were no statements in Bykoff's account which indicate that the Ekaterinburg soviet carried out the execution under direct orders from Moscow.

The Romanoffs were in their ordinary clothing when shot. It was not their custom to retire until long after 10 o'clock at night. Consequently, all were still dressed when the ill-fated group of eleven was unexpectedly ordered to the basement and shot.

Bykoff's story says the guards outside the house and the public were kept in ignorance of the shooting by a noisy automobile on side, which drowned the pistol shots.

At 1 o'clock the next morning the eleven bodies were secretly removed from the house and taken to a neighboring wood. There the clothing was stripped and then the bodies were burned. The bodies were later claimed to have found in the woods were probably the bodies of the clothing and overlooked by the men burning the bodies.

In addition to the czar and czarina, Alexandra and their four daughters, and one son, the persons who met death in the basement were Prince Dmitriyevich, Dr. Bedkin who was devoted to the Romanoffs, a lady-in-waiting, and a woman who was nurse to the czarina.

The names of the first two are not given in Bykoff's pamphlet.

"BEST BOSS" FACES TEST OF SYSTEM

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 22.—A new and unique chapter in the history of relations between capital and labor is being written in Philadelphia's traction controversy. Ten thousand employees have bought their way into the ranks of stockholders in order to help President Thomas E. Mitten retain control of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co.

Mitten is "the best boss in America," they say. They want to keep him. To night his light they too $240,000 out of the treasury of the Co-operative Welfare Association bought stock with it and named "Boss" Mitten their proxy.

The climax of the struggle for proxies will come at a meeting March 15 when it will be decided whether Mitten's "Men and Manager Plan" will be continued.

After Mitten's Scalp
The directors led by William J. Montgomery, chairman of the board, are out after Mitten's scalp. In an appeal to stockholders for proxies they charge Mitten with oversteering the board's authority by over-managing.

The insurgents promise better service and economy especially in the reduction of President Mitten's compensation, which they say is at least $158,000 a year.

Mitten, who landed in Philadelphia a penniless immigrant boy 49 years ago is credited with having worked out a rule during the 11 years he has been at the helm of the company. He has broadened better service and practicality.

It is pointed out that 25,000,000 pounds sterling will not necessarily be the maximum amount payable in interest to the United States during the next fiscal year.

NAVAL STORES MEN TO MEET IN SAVANNAH

SAVANNAH, Feb. 21.—Naval stores and paint men from all the Southern States will come to Savannah March 7 to attend a convention having for its purpose the framing of a substitute for the Harrison naval stores act. The meeting was called today by the Savannah Board of Trade at the request of R. S. Wesels of Atlanta, regional vice-president of the Southern zone, National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association.

Wages has been promised the employees if Mitten is not ousted.

"Step on the Road"
"This is not the ultimate end that we seek," Mitten told a meeting of motorists and conductors, "but I am not ready to speak of the mountains that I want to lead you to. This is a step on the road, but I must be right behind me supporting and justifying everything I say of what you can do and what you will do."

Women as well as men among the crowd voted an ultimatum to get behind him. The whip they put in his hand was a tally of a quarter of a million dollars' worth of voting cards.

Best to show that he is not the "Best Boss" men and women voters paraded the streets of Philadelphia carrying banners pleading aid to Mitten.

Build on Co-operation
Mitten's system of co-operation, which has been in effect for 11 years, is the present attempt of the rapid transit company to unite the owners and management with the employees. When he took hold of the traction system he said to the financial interests surrounding the P. R. T. and to the employees:

"This will be our program—first, to get to the public, second, to get to the public and decent working to do for the men and the financial interests of the stockholders."

RICHMOND HAS LOST A DELEGATE

14 RICHMOND, Feb. 21.—Richmond lost one delegate from the number originally agreed upon by the joint executive committee, redistributing the State House of delegates districts when the House redistributing bill was agreed to by vote of 76 to 15 this afternoon.

In the final redraft of the redistributing bill, in order to give Bath and Highland counties proper representation, a delegate was taken from the seven allotted Richmond and given to the district composed of Rockbridge, Buena Vista, Bath and Highland.

Man Jumps from 30-Foot Trestle to Escape Trolley Car.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 21.—Archie Bowker, 30 years old, of East Broad street, Chester, faced death in two ways today and is in the Chester hospital with a broken back and injuries of the head that will probably cause his death. Facing certain death under the wheels of a trolley car on the Rapid Transit company trestle bridge over Ridley creek he leaped from the bridge a distance of nearly 30 feet and was later removed to the hospital.

Philip Leary, of Eldersburg, who accompanied Bowker, stood his ground the trolley car stopping when almost upon him.

The men had been to the Eddy company Works to seek employment, but were unsuccessful and decided to come to this city by the short route and visit some of the plants of Chester.

There was considerable fog at the time they leaped the bridge and were started in the sudden appearance of the car, which was in charge of G. S. Elliott, conductor No. 6955.

ANOTHER AERIAL CATASTROPHY.

The terrible catastrophe which yesterday befell the army's giant non-rigid dirigible with a loss of over 31 lives, following so closely upon the destruction of the Navy's great ship over Hull, England, where it was being turned up for its flight across the Atlantic, calls for a pause along the avenue of development, and a deeper study of aerodynamics. While nations are agreeing upon the dismantling of warships and the reduction of the engines of war, one asks why it should be necessary to enter into competition in the aircraft building field with other nations at the terrible cost of human life which is being registered.

It is worthy of noting here, however, that neither of the dirigibles destroyed were of American manufacture. The Roma was built by the Italian government and was purchased at a heavy cost by this country, which will doubtless have to shoulder the loss since the ship after being re-erected in this country stood up under its initial test and was accepted formally.

The Navy dirigible was not a loss to the United States, for it had not been turned over to this country and the disaster took place in England.

The close sequence of such disasters would indicate that there are many imperfections to be overcome before the air can be made safe for this type of cruiser. The Roma evidently had a structural weakness since spectators on land saw the kite-like rudder swing downward as though broken and this naturally pointed the nose of the ship to earth where it crashed igniting from high tension wires through which it broke.

Here again, as was the case in the Hull tragedy hydrogen gas in the container fed its millions of cubic feet to the flames whereas if helium as had been available in sufficient quanties and used, this non-explosive gas would not have ignited and there doubtless would have been a far smaller death toll.

The staggering loss in human lives will have sobering effect on the plans of aerial national defense, and we suspect that it will be some time before the national service undertakes further experiments in such enormous airships. Germany in 1915 and 1916, when it was sending out its enormous messengers of winged death

—the zeppelins far larger than the Roma and of the rigid type, were more successful and the vessels were sturdy, and undertook far longer journeys than the Roma has ever attempted.

IRVING BRANCH, February 22.—(Grapevine Wirephoto).—This is Washington's daily. Throughout the whole country today our first president will be honored and hailed as the Father of his Country.
Among his achievements the most important of the day is the out in bold relief.
The story has often been told in school-room and nursery, how the great man even as a child loved the truth and could not tell a lie. In the McGuffey reader we remember a picture of little George with his three-cornered hat, pin-point and ribbon, carrying his brand new basket on papa's top cherry tree, when the old man slipped up on him. The boy reached in the basket and honesty was the best policy and would probably save him a licking. So he uttered these immortal words: "Father, I did it with my little basket. I cannot tell a lie. Which the story is true and makes no difference so long as everybody believes it. The moral is there, plain as a Lord's headlight on a dark night. Of course, if George had been older and married at the time, it is quite probable that this young of-fendant would have been lost to the world. Lying was a fine art before the flood, and we are still making progress in these unhappy days of war taxes and near beer.

I must stand up for my sex

by Mrs. Mary Preston Cooking Expert and Food Analyst

To understand how the argument started, you must know a few of the events that preceded it.

I had made an analysis of Heekin's Baking Powder and decided that no purer baking powder could be made. (No foreign ingredients are added to create an unnatural effervescence or to give a false impression of quality.) So I tried it in my baking. The excellent results made me enthusiastic.

Several of my co-workers tried it, too, and their results were as good as mine. There wasn't a single failure where Heekin's was used. No wonder it is the favorite baking powder with thousands of women. I reported in glowing terms to The Heekin Company and said that Heekin's should be the largest selling baking powder in America.

"I know it," said the sales manager, "and it would be if we could get every woman to buy one can and try it."

"That ought to be easy," I replied. And do you know what that sales manager said? He actually accused all women of being tied to their mothers' apron strings where baking powder was concerned. He said that because their mothers had used some particular brand, they all thought that they had to use the same brand, and you couldn't change them. Imagine that.

Naturally I stood up for my sex. I told him that women were more progressive than men, and that quality was what counted with them every time. I said that if he should tell the American women about Heekin's—that there is no better baking powder made, that there are 40 years' experience back of Heekin's, and that it costs much less than any of the other high-grade baking powders—every woman in America would be anxious to give it a trial.

He said, "You're a woman. Suppose you tell them." I agreed, because I know the excellent results that any woman will get with Heekin's. So confident am I, that I make this offer on behalf of The Heekin Company. If anything you bake—using Heekin's—is not entirely satisfactory to you, The Heekin Company will return the price of Baking Powder, and the price of the ingredients in whatever you bake. There are no "ifs" or "buts" to this offer. Simply tell the ingredients and the price of them, plus the price of baking powder, and send to The Heekin Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, with your name and address.

Buy a can today at your grocer's and try it. You'll like Heekin's.

Lexington Fire Began in Cellar

RICHMOND, Feb. 21.—Establishment of the origin of the fire today is said to be the point on which the grand jury of Hastings court probing the Lexington hotel disaster is concentrating its attention. A great many witnesses whose knowledge of the construction of the building, the ordering of the cellar as well as persons who were said to have been employed in the basement of the hotel were called by the jury yesterday in a probable effort to determine if the blaze could have originated in the hotel cellar.

The first intimation which he had that the hotel was afire, said Night Clerk Frey, was when he saw smoke and flames coming up the elevator shaft.

Mr. Frey, the morning of the fire, expressed the opinion that the blaze might have originated in a collection of rubbish and paint and paint rags which were left in the basement by painters who were engaged in renovating the interior of the hotel. While he was making efforts to turn in the alarm the elevator shaft became a roaring furnace, he said.

The grand jury resumed its probe of the circumstances of the fire when it reconvened at 11 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Frey was quizzed by the jury-men yesterday as were several persons who are said to have been employed in the engine-room of the hotel. Several firemen among them Chief Raffo, of fire headquarters, were put on the stand by the inquest. There are said to be several angles to the investigation, and the jury is going into each one thoroughly. It is expected that it will require several days before their report is ready.

"Discoveries" of a startling nature, which are said to have been made by the police are also being submitted to the probe.

Girl, 16, Takes Poison When Parents Bar Beau

WINSTED Conn. Feb. 21.—Rejoiced by her parents, who considered her too young to have a beau, Lucy, 16, daughter of Jacob Dugan, of Torrington, took carbolic acid today. She cannot live, according to doctors.

Lucy was a member of the sophomore class of the Torrington high school and had a good record as a student. She wrote a farewell note addressed to her mother expressing regret she had caused so much trouble.

West Point cadets must study the daily newspapers as a part of their course at the military academy.

Fannie Field Minstrels is on a tour of Europe and will stop in Italy for several months to write her next novel.

AL G. FIELD MINSTRELS ARE WELL ATTENDED

The popularity of Al G. Field Minstrels was attested to last night at the Majestic Theatre, which was packed with an audience, there to enjoy to the fullest—and no one went away disappointed. The personnel of the music, the various spectacles, the scenery and the costumes—all contributed to keep the reputation which the Al G. Field Minstrels have enjoyed for years.

The motif of all minstrels, necessarily, are the same—to please—some accomplishing that desideratum with ease, and others spoiled by a mad start. Not so last night. Al G. Field was the opening spectacle with the whole company taking part. The various merrymakers, visitors and entertainers managed to emanate the spirit of those scenes which are so familiar in New Orleans during the Spring festival.

Swiftly changing the theme the players swept into straight minstrelsy, with end men, interlocutors, jokes and jazzy music, interspersed with song of a sentimental nature. One of these songs, a melody by Jack Richards, really was the feature of the program and was encored again and again. Numbers by Nick Hufford, Bert Swor, Edwin Jones and John Healy were also well sung and were given a hearty round of applause.

A comedy court, Black vs. Blue, a humorous routine nonsense well handled, with Bert Swor in the leading role of judge, appealed to the audience greatly. Swor has a line of his own that is nearly always funny, the funnier the more absurd, and he is always absurd.

One of the diversions of the minstrel that was a real stage, handsomely costumed was the "Hunt," wherein scenery and costumes were made to lend themselves to some very good dancing, blackface comedy and some passable singing. The best episode of this number was the dance by the goddess of the woods, a goddess who was probably more Hermes than Aphrodite, but was nimble-footed and graceful and dressed in just the proper modicum of cloudy lace to appear feminine.

Rody Jordan and three other saxophone artists entertained the house most admirably for about 15 minutes during a change of scene, so well, in fact, that the audience didn't care where the scene was changed or not. Rody Jordan is a blackface who has already gone far in his sphere and will probably go farther. One of his songs, "He's in the Jail-House Now" was one of the hits of the evening.

A curtain with a big airship painted thereon, and one dashing aviator served as a background for another fanciful episode in the minstrel Bert Swor again was the whole thing, followed, never at times by a sextette of singers. It was very good comedy, especially that portion which related to Volstead and kindred subjects.

The closing episode was oriental in background and cosmopolitan in costume, with the finale a song by Jack Richards and Billy Church.

It was a good minstrel show with enough variety to maintain interest, plenty of above-the-average voices and jokes served up in attractive manner.

Glowing Timepiece Reveals Actor Peacefully Sleeping By Gatepost

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The next time John Bannan, white-haired actor, hangs his radiolite watch up on a gatepost preparatory to going to bed in a snowdrift, he probably will turn its face to the post.

Failure to take this little precaution led him into magistrate's court today on a charge of intoxication.

The glowing timepiece attracted Patrolman Gardner's attention as he was pacing through the zero weather in West Forty-seventh street early this morning. Investigating, he found Bannan's hat on the twin post and a pair of aristocratic shoes set neatly side by side near the gate. Then he found Bannan asleep in the snow, pillowing his head on a muffler and covered with his overcoat.

Bannan pleaded guilty, still protesting, however, against having his slumber disturbed. He drew a suspended sentence.

MASTODONS IN TEXAS

COLUMBUS, Tex., Feb. 22.—This section of Texas has become of interest to paleontologists. The rivers and gravel pits in this vicinity frequently give up specimens which are great aids in the study of paleontology. The axis or second vertebra of a mastodon, obtained at a depth of twenty feet, is the latest specimen to be brought to light here. The vertebra, which was not petrified, was found by P. E. Prickett, local citizen.

AMUSEMENT TAX YIELDS BIG SUM

There are now 542 theaters, concert halls and moving picture theaters in the city, and 700 dancing halls.

I sent samples to London to Sir Ernest Rutherford, greatest living authority on radioactivity. I have just received a reply establishing the genuineness of my claim.

Now if enough other prospectors come into this field and develop it and human suffering is alleviated by an increase in the supply of radium I'll feel my life has been worth while.

Story of Rotary,
By Its Founder

BY ROY GIBBONS

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Loneliness is a terrible thing. It shows the fineness of man, lowers theebb of his morale and by reason of its paralyzing influence, tends to make of him an unsocial animal neither understanding others, nor understanding himself.

In that statement Paul P. Harris, an attorney here, as founder of a unique group of "three kindred lights," 17 years ago, which today has developed into the International Association of Rotary Clubs, sums up his reasons for establishing the order.

Harris, long and lean of body, is now as always a battler against loneliness and unfriendliness.

One cold winter's morning 20 years ago he rode into Chicago, finishing the last leg of a round-the-world journey.

In his globe-trotting through Europe Harris noticed that the lone traveler always occupied a removed place at the hotel lobby, the Pullman car and that his attitude was one of longing for a good pal to cheer him up.

So great was the impression made upon him that Harris in Chicago, decided to voice a tangible protest against the loneliness of his cities.

His idea was to form a group of individuals and share with them the loneliness of the small town.

With that purpose in view he gathered around him three good friends and an evening would join together at a restaurant there to abandon business matters, eat and concern themselves in good-hearted intimacy.

As the meetings were held at different places the name Rotary was suggested.

The plan proved popular. New members were taken in each month and the club grew steadily.

Some years have passed. The Harris plan has succeeded in attracting a vast number of clubs scattered in 22 countries with a membership of approximately 100,000.

Rotary Week, ended February 19, with a series of banquets in every club headquarters over the world to commemorate the anniversary.

The author extends for six months and provision is made that no expense shall be incurred by the member. The 100,000 members to see the world.

celebrate the anniversary birthday.

Harris is 52, married but has no children. Although he founded the organization his only connection with the international body is that of president emeritus.

It was in 1905 that I started the first club.

And of the future.

My first club, I think, if he were to appear, I'd look only one thing the clubs and that is the impression of order with each other.

It is a club of men who are united by a common purpose, a common goal, a common ideal.

We are trying to do a great deal of good for the world.

Must Go the Limit
To Have Good Time

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Must the boy of 1922 be protected from the girl camp?

Miss Janet Richards, of Washington, speaking the other day at a meeting of mothers at the home of Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, No. 1100 Fifth Avenue, said that she must.

She narrated the sad story of a poor lad who went to his mother and told her the girl was making it awfully difficult for him to respect their lawfulness and purity, what with this cheek-to-cheek dancing, these petting parties and those other decadent things they are doing nowadays.

What do you girls leave to say about this state of affairs? inquired a reporter of a boy of Barnard College, undergraduate yesterday. And this is exactly what they said.

Miss M. M. Danne Rodgers, 115 the boy, said not the girls, that the year camped "the girl" feeling in the camp, the men. Mea, at much faster than girls, you know. Girls nowadays have to stand for being in order to be popular. There are ten men who like to be loved and petted to every one girl who likes the same things.

Miss Alice Parbank. It just makes me furious. Cheek dancing and petting are entirely the fault of the boys. What is a poor girl to do when her partner during a dance seizes her in a cave-like fashion? So on times out of ten the man starts the petting.

Why a girl doesn't have a good time is caused by the petting, nearly all the time with a girl. The petting makes me maddest though is that these school flappers are mistaken for us real college girls.

Miss Sarah Lord. I've never heard anything more ridiculous than the story of that little girl who told her troubles to her mamma. Any man that would give such a report about girls ought to be chucked by the ears and know him. What I'd like to know is if the boys don't like to be petted, how it they always come back for more?

Miss Esther Brigham. It's so funny, I don't like to take care of myself then mamma, a poor one for him to depend upon. It is ridiculous for a boy to say it is so difficult for him to be decent. Mothers ought to know that nowadays decent girls do a little petting too.

Now then? The next thing you know somebody will be breaking their poor boy's heart by telling him there isn't any Santa Claus.
